GLOBAL TASTEMAKERS AWARDS

At Your Service F&W readers vote for the best hotels for food and highlight their favorite amenity: room service.

By Brad Japhe

ROOM SERVICE IS AN IMPORTANT AMENITY that's all too often overlooked when planning where to stay. Indeed, the difference between good room service and great room service can separate a decent hotel experience from a transcendent one.

Our readers' top international pick for room service is the Waldorf Astoria Los Cabos Pedregal in Cabo San Lucas, Mexico. It's not just the excellence of the Mexican cuisine at this five-star property—Senior Editor Maria Yagoda claims this kitchen is responsible for the best chilaquiles verdes of her life—it's the ease with which you can attain it. Simply text your personal butler at any time, day or night, and an unforgettable meal will be at your door within minutes. Savor it from your bed or on the patio overlooking the ocean.

England's Beaverbrook properties clocked in a close second and third on the readers' choice list. The Beaverbrook estate in Surrey is downright aristocratic. So when it comes time to order up to your room, be prepared for a meal befitting royalty. For wine, that means a selection of half-bottles curated by the on-site sommelier. For food, it equals Grade I Japanese Kobe beef, hay-smoked chicken, miso-glazed black cod, and so much more.

At Beaverbrook Town House, the fabulousness of the estate is translated to a boutique abode in London's Chelsea. Delectable bites from the ground-level Fuji Grill can always be carried up to your room during dining hours (including the bento box at right) ... or, if it's breakfast time, you can opt for one of the best plates of waffles and bacon in all of London.

These are the winners of our inaugural Food & Wine Global Tastemakers Awards, in which F&W readers voted on their favorite food destinations. For the full results of the survey, scan the QR code, or visit foodandwine.com/global-tastemakers.
